Page and Route Inventory (WordPress -> Next.js)

Generated 2026-07-17 from the WordPress REST API (interventiodev.wpenginepowered.com).

Where the “131 pages” come from

The site does not have 131 hand-built pages. The number is the WordPress long tail:

Source	Count	Route on the Next.js site
WP Pages (native)	75	Mirrored path, rendered by the catch-all or a dedicated shell
WP Posts (blog)	47	/intervention-blog/[slug] via the catch-all detail_page CPT (service cards)	13	/intervention/[slug] or /services/[slug]
Total WP entries	135

Every entry flows automatically through the WP -> sanitize -> parse -> WpContent pipeline (nothing is hardcoded), so “migrating” a page means its template renders it, not that anyone rebuilt it. The crawl that found ~131 URLs is this same set minus a few unlinked utility pages.

The 5 templates (already in place, reused across all pages)

#	Template	Component	Used by
1	Home	src/app/page.tsx (Hero, HowItWorks, Testimonials, FAQ, CTA)	/ only
2	Section landing (hub)	SectionLanding	/intervention, /services, /resources
3	Service detail	DetailPage	13 detail_page CPTs under /intervention/* and /services/*
4	Content page (generic WP page)	ContentPage + WpContent blocks	The bulk: state/city SEO pages, does-my-X pages, about, insurance, family-class, legal
5	Blog	BlogList index + ContentPage prose for posts	/intervention-blog + 47 posts

Contact is a one-off shell (ContactView) with the HubSpot form embed.

Consolidation recommendations

- Keep exactly the 5 templates above. No page needs a bespoke design.
- Redirect duplicates in WordPress (or drop them): /about-us -> /about, /resources-3 -> /resources, /georgia -> /interventionists-by-state/georgia, /intervention-help -> /intervention, /free-resources -> /resources.
- The 5 root-level service pages (breakfree-journey, recovery-coach-companion, recovery-care-management, care-unit-assessment, senior-support-services) duplicate detail_page CPT entries. Pick one canonical URL per service and redirect the other.
- Thank-you pages (6) + sitemap + bist-registration: leave as-is via the catch-all; zero design investment.
- The ~24 state/city pages and 47 blog posts are the long tail worth keeping for SEO; they already share one template each.
